www.euclidquartet.com

Enjoy a fall evening of dinner and music with The Euclid Quartet. A dynamic ensemble known for performances filled with personality and vibrant color, is recognized as one of the most well-regarded chamber ensembles in its generation. Captivating audiences and critics ranging from Carnegie Hall to school classrooms to radio and television broadcasts, the quartet has performed to great acclaim across the country.

The eclectic mixture of the quartet members — Jameson Cooper, Jacob Murphy, Luis Vargas, and Si-Yan Darren Li — represents four continents of the world. They are originally from Great Britain, the U.S., Venezuela, and China. Formed in Ohio in 1998, the Euclid Quartet takes its name from the famous Euclid Avenue in Cleveland. Within three years, the group became one of only three ensembles awarded the String Quartet Fellowship to participate at the Aspen Music Festival.

In 2007, the Euclid Quartet was appointed the Quartet-in-Residence at Indiana University South Bend, where the four of them teach private lessons and coach chamber music. The quartet is committed to exposing young audiences to the joy of chamber music, and frequently performs programs tailored towards children, including a series of performances as "musical explorers" at Carnegie Hall. The quartet will be conducting an after-school workshop for the Plymouth Community Youth Orchestra.

Their debut CD on Centaur Records features the work of Hugo Kauder, a little-known Jewish composer from Vienna who sought refuge in the U.S. from the Nazis.
